George Jury Can't Agree

A Superior Court jury was dismissed yesterday when it was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Charles Mayne George charged with first-degree burglary.

George, 24, was arrested June 22, 1961, and accused of breaking into the Rib Bar-B-Q, 4866 E. Speedway Blvd. Police said George was apprehended after he was seen running from the rear of the building.

Then it was discovered that there had been a break-in at the restaurant and several cases of beer and foodstuffs piled outside the rear entrance.

George was convicted earlier this year on a charge of the sale of narcotics, and is free on an appeal bond in that case. He listed his address as 3601 E. Fairmont St.

Deputy County Atty. Sid Kain prosecuted George on the burglary charge. Atty. William Browning defended George. Judge Raul Castro presided at the 2½-day trial.

U.S. Not Involved In Hospital Dispute

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP)—Welfare Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze said Wednesday that federal funds were not involved in the operation of a Warrenton, Va., hospital whose sterilization program has kicked up a public controversy.

The law under which federal aid funds were advanced in 1956 to help build the institution—known as the Fauquier Hospital—bars federal officals from exercising any supervision or control over its operations, he said.
