Tower Bombers Brought to U.S.

The Editor's Notebook

By JONES OSBORN

It won't stay down.

That most troublesome of international questions, the matter of Red China, keeps coming up.

The Prime Minister of Japan will bring it up tomorrow, when he visits President Kennedy.

Hayato Ikeda will tell the President that Japanese sentiment favors closer cultural and economic ties with mainland China.

But his government has moved cautiously lest it offend American opinion.

Ikeda has already expressed himself, in an interview with U.S. News & World Report, as follows:

"We are on the side of the free world, and it is from that standpoint that we view the problem of Communist China. . .We are in no position at this stage to grant recognition, political recognition, to Communist China. That is a matter that has to be done in coordination with our allies and friends.

"But it seems to me that, because of these past relationships and because of our geographical propinquity, there should be no harm in developing trade ties with Red China.

"Racially, we are very close."

The problem is this: we owe Japan some consideration.

Japan serves as a kind of counter-balance in the Far East, bolstering our strength in that part of the world.

Continuance of a pro-western government in Japan is indispensable to our plans for a strong free world position in Asia.

Prime Minister Ikeda will raise, ever so politely, the question of Red China tomorrow.

Adlai Gets Nice Greeting

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press International

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — Ambassador Adlai Stevenson decided to extend his visit to Ecuador today, delighted at an unexpected display of warmth for the United States and signs of increasing coldness toward communism here.

Shouts of "viva Stevenson. . viva United States. . down with communism" rolled out of the crowd that greeted the goodwill emissary Sunday when he touched down in Guayaquil and then in Quito.

Sunday night Stevnson met with a delegation of obviously friendly student leaders.

The climate appeared to have changed radically from just six months ago when students stoned the U.S. Embassy and President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra praised Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev as a great world leader.

To See Ibarra

Stevenson arranged to meet to-man talk on ways to avoid problems that have strained U.S.-Ecuadorean relations in the past.

Stevenson had planned to leave today for Bogota, Colombia, the final stop on his 10-nation tour of South America for President Kennedy.

But his schedule was changed to provide him with a full day here and he will leave Tuesday morning instead.

Just last December, student mobs in Quito stoned the U.S. and Peruvian embassies because of a border dispute with Peru.

Shooting Victim Still In Critical Condition

Refuse To Abolish Ordinance

Yuma County Board of Supervisors took the first step today toward amending its controversial airport zoning ordinance, enacted at the request of the U.S. Air Force in 1953.

The board is moving toward elimination of the regulation which forbids any construction in the aircraft approach zones which will cause a concentration of people. The move was made at the request of Attorney William P. Copple.

Copple, however, is not getting nearly all that he asked for. He asked the Supervisors to abolish the entire ordinance. He said this would force Navy authorities to make up their minds as to what clearance zones they must have at Marine Corps Auxiliary Air Station at Yuma.

Restrictive Zoning

At the present time, Copple said, the county is holding extensive approach zones back from development by their owners or prospective owners, by virtue of restrictive zoning. He believes the Navy will make clear what approach zones it must have a lot sooner, if the present ordinance were abolished entirely.

Already, said Copple, two developments have been lost as a result of restrictive airport zoning.

Dr. Roy Evans, chairman of the county's new Aeronautics Commission, said his commission is presently working on an entirely new ordinance. But it will take some more time to have it finished. He said that his commission feels it should work closely with the Navy to make sure that its needs are considered.

Dr. Evans said, "Yuma County has been getting a free ride for a long time on one of the nicest airports in the country," referring to construction and maintenance of facilities performed by the Navy.

No Action

He requested that no action be taken until the Navy's viewpoint can be determined.

Tom Allt, a member of the Aeronautics Commission, said it would be foolish to abandon all zoning, then let costly construction take place in an approach zone which the Navy would later have to purchase. He and Dr. Evans said the Navy had expressed a desire to keep all three runways at the airport in service.

The outcome of the meeting was in two parts: 1) a move to begin legal proceedings aimed at eliminating the "concentration of people" rule; and 2) a joint meeting including Board of Supervisors, Aeronautics Commission, FAA, Navy, State Aviation Authority and other interested parties, to determine once and for all what the military's needs are. This meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. on Monday, June 26th, in the office of the Board of Supervisors at the Courthouse.

Court Rules Murder Suspect Legally Held

Superior Court Judge John McGuire Saturday quashed the writ of habeas corpus to free Rafael Guerrero, accused of the March murder of Ward Kenoyer here.

The writ asked for Guerrero to be freed due to lack of evidence at the preliminary hearing where he was held for trial.

Burglars Ring the Bell In Mountain States Office

SUPERIOR (UPI)—The offices of the Mountain States Telephone & Telegraph Co. here was looted over the weekend.

A safe weighing 250 pounds containing $114 was taken.

Pinal County sheriff's deputies are looking for three young men seen driving from the offices in a light green sedan Saturday.

It was the second burglary at the company within two months, Deputy Alex Arnett said. The first netted the robbers $400, but the safe was left intact.

Maricopa Co. Bids Hospital for Ariz. Medical School

PHOENIX (UPI) — Maricopa County supervisors would like for the state board of regents to order construction of a medical school in Phoenix.

In exchange, supervisors would allow use of the county's proposed $10.5 million hospital near downtown Phoenix for use in conjunction with the school.

Supervisors voted unanimously for this Saturday.

However, regents are considering the recommendation of a $135,000 survey that the school and hospital be constructed in Tucson at the University of Arizona.

The new county hospital, with 425 beds, is to be completed by January, 1965. It will be near the county health department and other major medical facilities.

"Both the state and county have nothing to lose and everything to gain by building the medical school in Phoenix," Supervisors Chairman Barney Burns stated.

He said this offer would cut by 50 per cent the cost of the medical complex to the state. And the state would not have the yearly maintenance and operation expense of the hospital, he added.

The University of Arizona and Arizona State University want the medical school and hospital. The report to regents last week estimated construction cost of the school would be $3.5 million and of the hospital, with 300 beds, $7.5 million if constructed immediately.

Immediate construction was urged.

The state would have to provide the school cost, plus at least one-half of the hospital cost. Federal funds under the Hill-Burton Act usually are available for hospital

Border Patrolman Killed In Air Crash at Calexico

CALEXICO, Calif. (UPI) — A border patrolman was killed when the light plane he was using to spot aliens crashed in a field.

He was Kenneth LeRoy Carl, 34, of El Centro, Calif.

Other patrolmen said Carl had sighted an alien attempting to cross the border about 10 miles west of here Sunday. He directed patrol cars to the scene, and officers picked up the alien and saw Carl make a low pass in the plane.

They said the plane started to climb and the engine sputtered. It crashed nose down in the field.

The patrolmen said when they reached the wreckage they could hear Carl breathing but he was trapped inside. He died before he could be removed by a crash crew from a nearby Naval field.

RECALL HINTED:

Better Co. Government Committee Is Formed

By BOB WERLEY

A meeting billed as being held for the purpose of "checking into the advisability, feasibility and possibility that a recall election be started against Sheriff Lee Echols" ended with the forming of a new committee yesterday.

Some 30 persons attended the meeting held in the banquet room of the Flamingo Hotel Sunday afternoon. Two and a half hours later, about 24 persons declared themselves in as members of "The Yuma County Better Government Committee." Chairman Ray Slosson, who called the meeting and who was elected head of the Committee, said the purpose was "To Get the Public interested in every phase of government in this county." All talk of a recall was dropped after the opening statement by Slosson.

The Chairman

While Slosson acted as the chairman, he was assisted by C. H. Trigg. Among those joining the organization were former Sheriff T. H. Newman, who was present, along with former Deputies Jack Chavez, Bill Meador, Roy Carpenter, Jack Carpenter and O. G. Jones. A fair-sized delegation from the eastern end of the county was also present including Justice of the Peace George Whitten of Wellton.

In his opening statement, Slosson declared that Sheriff Echols was guilty of one of two things, misconduct in office for allegedly lying when questioned about funds, or misappropriating county funds. No one was present from the sheriff's office to present a defense.

Slosson told the group that the sheriff claimed that R. H. Lutes paid his own expenses on a trip to San Francisco when the Yuma businessman went along as a special deputy.

The sheriff said today that his statement at the Supervisors meeting was that Mrs. Lutes paid the entire expense of the third person who accompanied them and that he also paid some of his own expenses. There have been so many vouchers submitted that it would be impossible to remember all that was paid without checking them.

Others present at the meeting were the two deputy county attorneys, Dave Ellsworth and Courtney Varner. They told The Sun today that the meeting had come to their attention but that they did not know its exact nature except that it might concern the county attorney's office. It did.

Refused Order

Slosson said that County Attorney Jeff Richards had refused him a court order to look into expense accounts of the sheriff and that he had also refused him a John Doe warrant. The committee chairman called on Ellsworth to back up his conversation with Richards.

Ellsworth rose to say that he recognized the group's rights to have such a meeting and commended their interest in county government. He then stated that court orders are not issued by the

Boy's Body Found in Phoenix Canal

PHOENIX (UPI) — Searchers today found the body of an 11-year-old boy who apparently was tossed into an irrigation canal in a two-car crash that injured eight other persons.

The body of Tommy Hostler of Phoenix was discovered by sheriff's deputies in the Arizona Crosscut Canal about two miles below 67th Avenue and Thomas Road.

That was the site of a smash-up Sunday which sent members of two families to St. Joseph's Hospital. Eight persons were taken from the scene but the Hostler boy could not be found.

Sheriff's deputies today began draining the canal. The boy's body was found near an irrigation gate in the area of Thomas Road.

The injured were:

Clemens E. Opel, 37, of Phoenix and his two daughters, Robin, 1, and Jo-Ann, 11; Roger Norman Picard, 45, of Avondale, his wife, Arline, 37, and their three children, Roger, 14, Mike, 13, and Paul, 7.

All, except Mike Picard, were reported in "critical condition." Mike was listed as "serious."

Sheriff's Deputy Larry J. Neuteboom said the Opel car was struck broadside by the Picard automobile. The crash sent the Picard car across the canal into a field.

The Opel auto was jammed against an abutment.

Salt River Project trucks were used to pull the wreckage apart and free Picard. His wife was beside him in the smashed automobile.

The missing boy was a next-door neighbor of the Opel family.

Union Action Is Curbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled today that a railway worker has a legal right to prevent a union from spending any of his union dues for political activities he opposes.

But the court reaffirmed the constitutionality of the union shop in the railway industry. It also said that to restrict unduly the expenditure of dues under a union shop agreement infringes the free speech rights of a majority of the union members.

The high court also said that its interpretation "involves no curtailment of the traditional political activities of the railroad unions."

The five-man majority in today's decision held that the Georgia Supreme Court went too far in a case involving six railway workers who protested the political use of their dues under a union shop agreement. The Georgia court had invalidated the contract, held that a provision of the Railway Labor Act allowing union shops was unconstitutional and ordered all dues refunded to the workers.

Wants Better Remedy

The U.S. Supreme Court, while agreeing with the protest of the workers, told the Georgia tribunal to come up with a better remedy.

For the majority, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said the ruling "means only that those (railroad) unions must not support those (political) activities against the expressed wishes of a dissenting employe with his exacted money."

Four justices filed separate opinions.

The protesting employes brought suit in Macon, Ga., on grounds that their constitutional right to freedom of expression was violated by use of their dues money for political activities they opposed. They had been compelled to join the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks under a union shop contract which says a nonunion member must join and pay dues within a certain period of time or lose his job.

Ready for Vacation

The ruling came as the court pressed for adjournment of the 1960-61 session. With its docket cleared, the high tribunal would recess until next October.

In other actions today, the court:

—Ruled that a Navy commander may bar employes of a private contractor from a Navy installation without a hearing or explanation. The decision on the case involving Rachel M. Brawner, a one-time cafeteria worker at the Navy gun factory here, was 5-4.

—Ruled that a state may compel all practicing attorneys to join its bar association.

The railway case, known as the Looper case, was brought by six Southern Railway system workers who in 1953 sued the carrier and 15 unions.

Taken Off Armed Yacht At Ensenada

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two Americans, one a bearded, self-proclaimed revolutionary against big business, were held today in lieu of $100,000 bail each on charges of sabotaging two microwave towers and a relay station in Utah and Nevada May 28.

Graying Bernard J. Brous, 51, who said he was the leader of a two-man "American republican army," and Dale Chris Jensen, 33, were arrested by Mexican authorities Saturday. They were taken into custody aboard Brous' heavily armed yacht anchored at Ensenada, Mexico, 85 miles south of the border.

The conspirators were turned over to agents of the FBI at the border Sunday and taken before U. S. Commissioner Betty Marshall Graydon for arraignment on charges of conspiracy to commit sabotage.

After bail was set the suspects were booked at San Diego County Jail.

Also picked up by Mexico authorities and transported here by the FBI were Brous' wife, Minnie, 40-year-old ex-model and ex-dancer, and Robert Gerald Bortoli, 28, Reno, Nev., a card dealer who said he was just passing through. They were held for questioning.

Appears Relaxed, Calm

Brous, who looked relaxed and calm while admitting he masterminded the sabotage, and Jensen will have a hearing Tuesday, or as soon as the FBI's complaint arrives from Las Vegas, Nev.

The complaint charged the pair with only one of the bombings and mentioned "other unknown persons," indicating more arrests in the case were probable. The men were charged with the explosion at Wendover, Utah. No mention was made of the other two bombings the same day.

Brous, a former New York realtor, with a gray, Castro-type beard, said the bombings constituted "the first frontal move by the American Republican Army."

Jensen told Robert L. Curry,

Discoverer Recovered By Divers

HONOLULU, (UPI) — A gold-plated 300-pound Discoverer capsule and the three skindivers who fished it from the Pacific were picked up today by a Navy destroyer escort as they bobbed on a life raft.

The Air Force said the Radford took the men and their prize aboard and began the 12-hour trip to Hawaii with the fifth Discoverer capsule to be recovered from space.

"The capsule and men are in excellent condition," the Air Force announcement said. The capsule will be returned to scientists for study of information accumulated up during two days in space.

Two Air Force air rescue service SC54s orbitted the raft through out the night.

On a signal from the ground, the instrument packet Sunday was shot back from Discoverer XXV satellite which was 250 miles an hour. That was on the 33rd pass of the satellite, launched into polar orbit Friday from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

It fell north of the recovery area in the Pacific off Hawaii, out of range of waiting snare-trailing planes and ships.

But one of the C119 cargo planes saw the capsule floating in the water and radioed for a specially equipped SC54 — similar to a DC4 — carrying skindivers.

Pilot of the plane that first saw the capsule was Capt. Warren C. Schensted, 32, Glenwood, Minn. Schensted, who would have tried to catch the capsule in flight had it been in range, was the pilot who first saw the initial capsule to be recovered, Discoverer XXIII.

A TEEN-AGER PROTEST:

Hit Tune Lyrics 'Sickening'

"What would it take," a Yuma teen-ager asks in a letter to The Sun, "to get recordings like 'Little Egypt' taken off our radio stations?"

Becki Newcomb, of Route 3, Box 140, Yuma, makes it clear in her letter that she is not complaining about rock-and-roll music as a whole.

"I'm complaining about these songs that insinuate things and those that come right out and say them. As a whole most recordings are okay, but some of them are just plain sickening and it's a shame that the adults who are supposed to be our guides don't do anything about it."

Review of Lyrics

Becki's letter resulted in a study of the air waves. What the monitor heard was sometimes incomprehensible, sometimes idiotic — but frequently, as Becki reports, insinuating and suggestive beyond any reasonable doubt.

Sex is the theme in a good many of the most popular songs beamed at today's teen-agers. It frequently is identified as "lovin' " or "all the way" or being "mine completely." Two of today's "top pops" refer to it as "paradise."

Some of the songs have only one meaning. But others tread a narrow line between pornography and suggestiveness. For example, two meanings are possible in this song, called "I Just Want To Make Love To You."

I don't want you to work all day
I don't want you to be no slave
All I want you to be is true
And I just want to make love to you.

Others, however, are more plain-spoken. Look at these opening lines from the song, "Will You Love Me Tomorrow":

Tonight you're mine completely
You give your love so sweetly.
Tonight the light of love is in your eyes
But will you love me tomorrow?
Is this a lasting treasure
Or just a moment's pleasure?

'Little Egypt'

One of the most popular of today's hit tunes (at least it is broadcast with ear-splitting frequency) is the song about which Becki complains — "Little Egypt." This turns out to be a bawdy little ballad about a belly dancer who "crawls on her belly like a reptile." When the curtain is pulled and the spotlight turned "way down low," Little Egypt "came out strutting wearing nothing but a button and a bow."

Her ornaments, in addition to a button and a bow, include "a ruby on her tummy and a diamond big as Texas on her toe. The story follows:

She let her hair down
And she did the hoochie koochie real slow.
When she did her special number on a zebra skin
I thought she'd stop the show
Singing ying-yang, ying-yang,
She did a triple somersault
And when she hit the ground
She winked at the audience
And then she turned around.

She had a picture of a cowboy
Tattoed on her spine
Saying, "Phoenix, Arizona, 1949."

Yea, but let me tell you, people
Little Egypt doesn't dance there anymore.
She's too busy mopping
And a-taking care of shopping at the store
'Cause we got seven kids
And all day long they crawl around the floor
Singing ying yang, ying yang.

Services Set Today For Jeff Chandler

By JOSEPH FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Funeral services will be held today for actor Jeff Chandler, 42, who died of blood poisoning following entering the hospital for surgery to correct a back ailment and undergoing three operations.

Chandler, who would have preferred a baseball career to acting, died Saturday in the Culver City Hospital.

"He didn't want to work in pictures, he just wanted live as a normal human being," said an emotional Kim Novak after Chandler died.

The services will be conducted at 1 p.m. PDT in Temple Isaiah with Rabbi Albert Lewis performing the ceremony and cantor Robert Nadel singing the liturgical music.

The death of the tall prematurely gray-haired star was a shock to his many friends who had thought he was recovering.

The actor, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., entered the hospital May 13 for corrective surgery of a ruptured spinal disc.

Received Many Transfusions

Chandler began to hemorrhage five days after surgery and a 7½ hour second operation was performed in which he received more than 50 pints of blood in transfusion. On May 27, he hemorraged again and suffered a relapse.

At his bedside when he dies was Chandler's mother, father and ex-wife, Marjorie Moshelle. The coupled had been married 14 years but were divorced last year. They had two children, Jamie, 14, and Dana, 11.

Chandler's dedication to his career played a major part in his final illness. It was while he was in the Philippine Island on location for unfinished "The Marauders," in which he played Gen. Frank Merrill of World War II fame, that Chandler's back condition worsened.

He wouldn't let the ailment sideline him from filming and continued reporting for work each day. He received treatments and injections for relief of the spinal disc pain.

Chandler was an avid San Francisco Giant baseball fan who often worked out with the team.

The star was always quick to discus baseball with anybody who brought up the subject. At Hollywood parties, where actors often talked of their pictures, it was not unusual to see Chandler in fellow baseball buff.

Chandler served four years in the Army, the Pacific theater, and was discharged in 1945 as an infantry first lieutenant.

He then decided to try his luck at acting on radio and in Hollywood movies. He played the title role of "Michael Shayne, Detective" and was Eve Arden's boy friend in "Our Miss Brooks" on radio.

Dick Powell gave him a small movie part in "Johnny O'Clock," but his first major film role was in "Sword in the Desert."

After that, Chandler went on to appear in such pictures as "Broken Arrow," "Because of you," "Away All Boats," "Jeanne Eagels," "Lady Takes a Flyer," and "The Jayhawkers."

Five Juveniles Arrested for Stealing Beer

Five juveniles were taken into custody Saturday morning in connection with the theft of three cases of beer from Joyner Sales Co., 210 16th Street.

The burglary was reported at 7:45 Friday night. Patrolman Bud Yancey, called to investigate, followed tracks west from Joyner's to the east side of the Yuma municipal baseball park where he located the stolen goods hidden under some freshly cut weeds.

Police decided to stake out the area and at 11 a.m. Saturday a car approached the spot and the occupants picked up the stolen goods.

Officers gave chase and stopped the car at 16th Street and 1st Avenue. The car contained five juveniles, aged 17, 16, 17, 14 and 16. They denied having anything to do with the crime.

The boys said they were on their way to go swimming and had heard that the stolen beer was hidden behind the ball park, police reported.

All five were booked for burglary at the juvenile home and were released into the custody of their parents.

One of the youths reportedly later admitted committing the burglary alone.

county attorney's office but by a recognized court. He said a charge would have to be filed in such a case and that none had been. He also said that a John Doe Warrant could only be used in the case should the individual be unknown.

During the meeting, various persons stated that they did not think that the Wellton deputy was doing his job. Two speaking out on the matter were Judge Whitten and Constable Roy Carpenter.

At one point in the meeting, Slosson stated that County Attorney Jeff Richards had handled 25 divorce cases as part of his private practice. Ellsworth explained that the county attorney may handle such private practice because of the low salary. Varner, who is a partner with Richards, said he'd like to see Slosson list the 25 cases. Stated Varner, "There haven't been 25 since the first of the year and any man who says so is a liar."

Recent Statements

When recent statements by County Supervisor Jim Fuquay were brought up in the meeting, Slosson said he was sorry that Fuquay's name was mentioned because he wasn't there to defend himself. Varner retorted that Richard's name had been brought up many times and he wasn't there either.

As the meeting wore on through the second hour, some half dozen persons left. About 24, including several youngsters, remained at organization time. Slosson appointed Stanley Crane of Wellton as secretary of the Committee. In introducing him, Slosson remarked "he is not yet titled to vote." Crane said he worked for the highway department.

Slosson appointed a group to be members of his advisory or executive committee. These included Trigg, Jack Carpenter, Mrs. O. G. Jones and Jack Chaver. A group of others were to be contacted to be on the committee.

No date was set for the next meeting but Slosson said it would be before July 1st. He mentioned that date earlier as being the earliest possible date that a recall petition could be filed.

According to the state code, a recall petition must contain the signatures of the number of qualified voters equal to the number of votes cast in the last preceding general election for all candidates for the office held by the officer in question. It need not contain the name of a proposed replacement.

Man Found Dead On Gila Street Yesterday

City Police found the body of a deceased man south of the Texaco bulk plant on South Gila Street Sunday morning.

The man's body had no identification except a scrap of paper with the name Sherman N. Leach and a social security number on it.

A check of the Lower Lights Rescue Mission showed that a man by that name had registered for the evening meal last Tuesday.

Officers believe the man died of natural causes because of the position of the body and the lack of any evidence of foul play. They estimated the man had been dead 12 to 16 hours at the time the body was found. Coroner Ersel C. Byrd requested an autopsy.

No group was left untouched by the sell-off and in the ensuing rally that about cut losses in half.

Most blue chips suffered at least fractional losses with steels the worst off after reporting another drop in production for last week.

Chrysler was a standout all day, bucking the trend while the market was falling. It finished close to a point ahead. Zenith also finished on the upside.

Among the heavier items were Texas Instruments, IBM, Continental Steel, Underwood, Kimberly-Clark, Helene Curtis, Magma Copper, Kern County Land, Wheeling Steel and Texaco with losses ranging from 2 to 4.

Tower Bombers . . .

publisher of the South Bay Daily Breeze (Redondo Beach, Calif.), that he used an "eight-hour type bomb" which was planted well ahead of the actual explosions and triggered by an alarm clock mechanism when he was miles away. He seemed proud of the work.

Jensen said he did it because "they" were going to kill Mr. Brous."

Asked who "they" were, Jensen replied, "the FBI and AT&T and Southwest Bell Telephone."

"I set up all three (bombs) myself . . . they (the installations) were completely vulnerable because they were unguraded and unattended," said Jensen.

Explains Bombings' Purpose

Jauntily attired in a yaching uniform, Brous explained his purpose in masterminding the bombings. He said his "army" wants to gain political balance in the United States.

The bombings were a step in destroying certain types of business — "cartels such as the American Telephone and Telegraph Co."

"We will gain this power by political, not violent means," Brous said.

He said "hate for the privately owned utility companies and a scare" were the reasons for blowing up the towers.

Asked how many people were in his army, Brous said, "It's rather slim. It's an entirely secret organization — Dale and myself. We did this to bring to the attention of the American public" opposition to certain utilities.

Brous said he had been mailing propaganda to newspapers for months, "but nothing was printed." The letters apparently were Brous' downfall.

The Salt Lake City Tribune said it received a letter signed "John Brown, Harpers Ferry, Va., secretary-general of the American Republican Army" and boasting of setting off the blasts. The letter was postmarked Los Angeles and turned over to the FBI.

William Anderson, Washington reporter for the Chicago Tribune, said the letter was a factor in the arrest and Mexico authorities went aboard the yacht Sunday in Ensenada harbor after being contacted by the FBI.

The yacht, described as a 47-foot, two-masted schooner, was purchased by Brous in California about May 23. The vessel was equipped with machine guns, hand grenades, pistols and ammunition. The stern was armored.

RECALL HINTED:

Better Co. Government Committee Is Formed

By BOB WERLEY

A meeting billed as being held for the purpose of "checking into the advisability, feasibility and possibility that a recall election be started against Sheriff Lee Echols" ended with the forming of a new committee yesterday.

Some 30 persons attended the meeting held in the banquet room of the Flamingo Hotel Sunday afternoon. Two and a half hours later, about 24 persons declared themselves in as members of "The Yuma County Better Government Committee." Chairman Ray Slosson, who called the meeting and who was elected head of the Committee, said the purpose was "To Get the Public interested in every phase of government in this county." All talk of a recall was dropped after the opening statement by Slosson.

The Chairman

While Slosson acted as the chairman, he was assisted by C. H. Trigg. Among those joining the organization were former Sheriff T. H. Newman, who was present, along with former Deputies Jack Chavez, Bill Meador, Roy Carpenter, Jack Carpenter and O. G. Jones. A fair-sized delegation from the eastern end of the county was also present including Justice of the Peace George Whitten of Wellton.

In his opening statement, Slosson declared that Sheriff Echols was guilty of one of two things, misconduct in office for allegedly lying when questioned about funds, or misappropriating county funds. No one was present from the sheriff's office to present a defense.

Slosson told the group that the sheriff claimed that R. H. Lutes paid his own expenses on a trip to San Francisco when the Yuma businessman went along as a special deputy.

The sheriff said today that his statement at the Supervisors meeting was that Mrs. Lutes paid the entire expense of the third person who accompanied them and that he also paid some of his own expenses. There have been so many vouchers submitted that it would be impossible to remember all that was paid without checking them.

Others present at the meeting were the two deputy county attorneys, Dave Ellsworth and Courtney Varner. They told The Sun today that the meeting had come to their attention but that they did not know its exact nature except that it might concern hte county attorney's office. It did.

Refused Order

Slosson said that County Attorney Jeff Richards had refused him a court order to look into expense accounts of the sheriff and that he had also refused him a John Doe warrant. The committee chairman called on Ellsworth to back up his conversation with Richards.

Ellsworth rose to say that he recognized the group's rights to have such a meeting and commended their interest in county government. He then stated that court orders are not issued by the county attorney's office but by a recognized court. He said a charge would have to be filed in such a case and that none had been. He also said that a John Doe Warrant could only be used in the case should the individual be unknown.

During the meeting, various persons stated that they did not think that the Wellton deputy was doing his job. Two speaking out on the matter were Judge Whitten and Constable Roy Carpenter.

At one point in the meeting, Slosson stated that County Attorney Jeff Richards had handled 25 divorce cases as part of his private practice. Ellsworth explained that the county attorney may handle such private practice because of the low salary. Varner, who is a partner with Richards, said he'd like to see Slosson list the 25 cases. Stated Varner, "There haven't been 25 since the first of the year and any man who says so is a liar."

Recent Statements

When recent statements by County Supervisor Jim Fuquay were brought up in the meeting, Slosson said he was sorry that Fuquay's name was mentioned because he wasn't there to defend himself. Varner retorted that Richard's name had been brought up many times and he wasn't there either.

As the meeting wore on through the second hour, some half dozen persons left. About 24, including several youngsters, remained at organization time. Slosson appointed Stanley Crane of Wellton as secretary of the Committee. In introducing him, Slosson remarked "he is not yet titled to vote." Crane said he worked for the highway department.

Slosson appointed a group to be members of his advisory or executive committee. These included Trigg, Jack Carpenter, Mrs. O. G. Jones and Jack Chavez. A group of others were to be contacted to be on the committee.

No date was set for the next meeting but Slosson said it would be before July 1st. He mentioned that date earlier as being the earliest possible date that a recall petition could be filed.

According to the state code, a recall petition must contain the signatures of the number of qualified voters equal to the number of votes cast in the last preceding general election for all candidates for the office held by the officer in question. It need not contain the name of a proposed replacement.
