ARIZONA SENTINEL.

J. W. DORRINGTON, Proprietor.

YUMA, - - - ARIZONA

WEDNESDAY, NOV 19, 1902.

The latest Hoe printing press uses up 120 miles of white paper every hour it runs.

The difference between a rapid-fire gun and a machine gun is that the former is loaded by hand.

Tom Johnson of Ohio is strenuous, no doubt, but he will never again try to gain votes by street fights.

It takes an artistic woman to hold up the skirt of her gown gracefully. Not one in ten can grab up her dress and hold it so it will hang prettily.

If five per cent of the pledges made on the stump by Colonel Wilson during the recent campaign are fulfilled when congress convenes, the territory will have much to be thankful for.

The United States fish commission, during the last fiscal year, distributed 1,495,581,374 young fish, nearly half of which were white fish. Lobsters numbering 81,020,000 were sent out.

A week from tomorrow will be thanksgiving day. The turkeys are being gathered for the feast, and in the round-up those who have plenty should not forget the poor and unfortunate, who are always with us.

It is reported that J. C. DeWitt, the hold-over member of the board of supervisors, will resign from the board, as he contemplates moving out of the county. The appointment of his successor rests with the chairman of the board, the treasurer and the probate judge.

The Spanish minister in Washington says his one object in this country is to restore friendly relations between Spain and the United States. The United States will gladly meet him half way, but would suggest that, as a preliminary, Spain reduce her tariff on some of the goods we would gladly sell her and which she actually needs.

In Somerton precinct two men voted whose names were not on the great register. The votes, of course, should not have been allowed and the election board is censurable for permitting it. The law is very plain on this point—and what is the use of having election laws if their open violation is to be allowed and pass unnoticed?

"One of my children was taken with cramp colic and suffered severely," says S. B Elzee, of Monett, Mo. "I telephoned for a doctor, then gave a dose of of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and a few minutes later a second dose. Before the doctor came the child was relieved." For sale at Cotter's drug store.

One of the several peculiar features of the late election was the vote on precinct officers in the Harrisburg precinct. For justice of the peace there were five candidates and each received one vote, as shown by the official returns. For constable there were three candidates and each received one vote. Apparently in both cases each candidate voted for himself unanimously.

For several winters past Yuma has suffered from disease brought in here by strangers and visitors. If the town authorities had done their duty the entrance of diseased persons could have been prevented. Winter is again here, and what has happened in the past may be repeated unless proper and effective measures are taken to keep out such afflicted persons. It is the duty of the officials to see that the town is placed in a good sanitary condition, safe-guards put out and everything done to protect the people against a contagious disease, such as was brought in last winter. Official negligence may cost us dear. It cannot, therefore, be too strongly urged by all those who have the welfare of the town at heart that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

That old copybook maxim finds its most forceful application in the waste of vitality, which is called "burning the candle at both ends." A woman is often tempted beyond her strength by domestic or social demands. Some day she awakens from this waste of strength to the woeful want of it. She has become weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous, run-down women, there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep. It cures local diseases peculiarly womanly which undermine the general health. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after you read my letter you will remember me," writes Mrs. Annie E. Moring, of 238 7th Avenue, S. W., Roanoke, Va. "In the year 1897, I wrote to you for advice, which you gave me free of charge. When I wrote to you I was a wreck; I could not walk straight for pains in my abdomen; could not sit down, lie down, or get any ease at all. I had what was called the best doctor here, but did not get any better until I went through a course of your medicine. I took eight bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and ten bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I tell you the medicine made a cure of me."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

THE OFFICIAL CANVASS.

The board of supervisors met according to law last Monday to canvass the returns of the election held November 4, the full board and clerk being present.

An unusual, and so far unexplained, circumstance concerning the official vote was brought to light regarding the returns from Kofa precinct. The package containing the ballots was found open. Mr. Bondesson, the deputy recorder, who received the packages, says that when M. J. Nugent, election inspector at Kofa, delivered them to him the envelope containing the ballots was open on one side and the center seal more or less cracked; that he deposited the packages in the recorder's safe, where they remained for nine days before being delivered to the treasurer—which was not fulfilling the requirements of the law.

Paragraph 2395 of the revised statutes says:

"Upon receipt of the package the clerk must deposit in the safe of the county treasurer the one containing the ballots, who must keep it unopened and unaltered for six months, after which time, if there be no contest commenced, he must burn the package without opening or examining the contents."

A further irregularity in this connection was, that before being delivered to the treasurer, the sole legal custodian, it appears that the package of ballots came into the hands of the canvassing board, and by this time the seals on the envelope were all broken—in fact, the envelope was open.

The above are simply the facts as developed through the proceedings of the canvassing board, and the Sentinel presents them without comment at this time.

The board completed the canvass on Monday and adjourned until the third Monday in December.

Following is the result as determined by the official count:

The South's Flag.

The woman who claimed to be the Betsy Ross of the confederate states, has just been buried at Alexandria, Va. Although she said she made the first confederate flag, her death was unnoted. The claimant was Mrs. Sibby A. Padgett, who lived in Alexandria. She made the flag that was the indirect cause of the death of Colonel Elmer Ellsworth, the young and impetuous friend of President Lincoln. She made it at the request of James Jackson, proprietor of the Marshall house. As soon as it was completed Jackson had it raised over his hotel, when the young colonel demanded that it come down. Jackson shot Ellsworth as he was coming down the stairs with the flag. The weapon with which the murder was committed is on exhibition in the National museum, and a sister of Jackson keeps a boarding house not far from the repository of the gun.

Brother Rodgers of the Prescott Courier thus gives his views as to what constitutes an ideal election: "The main component parts of an election are newspapers, politicians, whisky, and more whisky, and still more whisky, and even more whisky than that, with still more whisky coming after that is gone. Pass around the whisky. What would an election be without whisky?"

The board of supervisors in canvassing the vote on county officers found that the candidate for surveyor on the democratic ticket and the candidate for the same office on the socialist ticket were, so far as the law applies in the matter, two separate, distinct and different persons. On the socialist ticket the name was printed "Ed. Hartley" and on the democratic ticket "E. J. Hartley." The vote thus cast was credited to the "two candidates" separately and W. H. Elliott, the republican candidate, was declared elected by a plurality of 85. The board's action in this case is fully justified, as the election law does not permit any such juggling of names, whether intentional, by mistake, or through ignorance.

There is nothing pharisaical about Henry T. Gage, governor of California. His thanksgiving proclamation contains about forty words and is a model of common sense and brevity. He rightly assumes that people will spend the day according to their individual tastes and as their circumstances and environments will permit. Strange as it may seem, he kept within the strict limits of the Constitution. In all future proclamations of thanksgiving day it would be well if the example of Governor Gage were followed.

The Sentinel opposed the election of Senator Ives, but has at all times recognized his ability, and the territorial legislature being democratic, we endorse him for president of the council. At the last session he presided with ability, and being well versed in parliamentary law no better selection could be made. He represents Yuma county and we desire the county honored by his election as presiding officer.

Hon. M. J. Nugent was in town Thursday, having returned from Phoenix where he had been in attendance upon the United States court. Mike is highly elated over the big democratic vote at Kofa. At the last democratic county convention he had a small delegation, was "sot down upon" hard and told to take a back seat. Kofa having given a big democratic majority, Mike will have a larger delegation at the next convention, and he says "some of the other fellows will have to 'go way back and set down.'"

Origin of Old Glory.

In the reminiscences of Lord Ronald Gower is found a story of the Stars and Stripes.

The Star Spangled Banner of the American republic has its origin from an old brass on the floor of Brighton church in Northamptonshire. The brass covers the tomb of one Robert Washington and is dated 1622. On it appears the Washington coat of arms, consisting of three stars with bars and stripes beneath them. On the first day of the new year, 1776, the thirteen united colonies raised a standard at Washington's headquarters.

This introduced the stripes of the present, but retained the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew on a blue ground in the corner; in 1777 the crosses were replaced by stars, as the declaration of independence rendered the English element unnecessary and inconvenient. In thus adopting the arms of his ancestors as his own distinctive badge Washington, no doubt, intended the flag merely as a private signal for his own personal following, but it was at once adopted as a national emblem. Probably there is not another case in the world's history in which the private arms of an obscure family have attained such world-wide eminence and repute.

Discharged Convict Killed by Train.

John Miller, who was discharged from the territorial prison last week, met with a horrible death Monday night, under the wheels of an east-bound freight, near Mohawk Summit. The headless and mangled body was found four miles east of the station Tuesday morning by tramps, who reported the fact to the railroad agent. The head was found thirty feet from the body and the clothes of the unfortunate man were strewn along the track for two miles. The supposition is that Miller was riding on the rods under a car and fell from his position while the train was going down the steep grade east of Mohawk Summit.

Judge Rieff, accompanied by Marshal Jake Meadows, went to Mohawk Summit, where an inquest was held yesterday.

A week ago yesterday a little boy was brought up from Algodones to receive surgical attention. His left hand had been severely injured, the second finger having been completely sawed off near the middle joint and the third over one-half through. The boy was attended to by Dr. Ap John and is doing well.

Advices to the Tucson Star from Tombstone state that mining men who have just arrived there report an important discovery in connection with the international boundary line between the United States and Mexico. At a point some fifteen miles from Tombstone the monument marking the dividing line has been moved as much as three-quarters of a mile into Mexico. It is presumed that this has been done in the interest of those having mining interests and who desire to have their property in the United States on account of the liberality of our mining laws.

Cattle From Arizona.
