FREE SCHOOLS IN ARIZONA.

The free schools of Arizona are now in successful operation. Sufficient money to pay the expenses of the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open a second or the same and to keep them open as the same and to keep the same and cient money to pay the expenses of the same and to keep them open a larger part of the year, has been pro-vided for by Territorial and County taxation. No pains have been spared to secure the services of the best teachers that could be obtained in the object, Governor Safford has for nearly a year been in correspondence with teachers and persons interested in education throughout the United States, with a view of not only getting those who were thoroughly competent, but at the same time adapted to this field of labor, and also those who by experience were thoroughly familiar with the latest and most improved methods of teaching.

George W. Nash, an experienced teacher from Indiana, has charge of the school at Yuma. His wife is expected to soon arrive and be associated with him as an assistant teach-

Mrs. Blakeley has charge of the school in Mohave county. She combines a natural talent for the profes sion with long experience, and her

Miss Kelly has the Prescott school. She came from Oregon and highly recommended, too. From all authentic sources, we hear high opinions of her in the school she is now teaching.

Miss Nellie Shafer has or very soo will open the school at Phenix, and she is well recommended from her home in the east.

Mr. Goodrich has been engaged to teach the school at Florence. He recently came here with his family from San Diego county, California, where he was engaged teaching and from whence he brings good recommendations.

Miss Maria M. Wakefield and Miss H. N. Bolton arrived here on Tuesday evening and opened the Tucson school on Thursday. They came from Stockton, California, where they have been engaged teaching during the past four years. Letters from persons who take great interest in edpersons who take great interest in education and have had the best opportunities for knowing their qualifications, say they rank among the very best teachers in California, for the Ehrenberg school and no doubt he will soon have it going.

It is with peculiar satisfaction that we are able to note the hopeful condition of the free school is a frizons. The free school is essentially an
